

Upstairs Landing

The upstairs landing represented a challenge, as it is a high traffic area as well as an office. The main purpose was to simplify the elements and create a harmonious, inviting environment. As the landing provides passage into five other areas, the intent is to provide a tranquil area – a comfortable place to pause, rest, read. In re-designing the use of this landing, Joyce and Saul were sensitive to the dominant feature of the staircase and surrounding dark wood treatment, which is reminiscent of architect Frank Lloyd Wright. Simple geometric forms and earth tones are used in the furnishings, with nature a recurring theme in the artwork. Muted plums, mossy greens and golds accent the primary colour, a soft greenish-gold. The focal point of the landing is the custom-made chaise lounge, with a steel frame painted in a dark bronze finish and upholstered in an earthy-plum cut velvet.
